WATER COMMISSION SEEKS HIGHER RATES

Hearing on Application Will Be Held Here Next Tuesday Afternoon.

MUST MEET BIG DEFICIT

Proposed Increase Will Make
Only a Small Dent in Consumer's Purse.

Hearing on the application of Appleton Water Commission for authority to increase its service rates will be held before the Wisconsin Railroad commission at the city hall here at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 30. Notice of the hearing was received this week. The water commission was granted authority to make application for increased rates by the common council several weeks ago.

The commission sets forth that it is now operating at a deficit and that this deficit will increase unless immediate relief is given. The application stated that the deficit in 1918 was $6,299.48; in 1919 it was $8,959.95 and in the last six months of 1919 the deficit amounted up to $8,866.45. The fiscal year was changed last fall to end on December 31 of each year instead of June 30. It is estimated that the deficit by the end of the calendar year will have reached $18,000.

The proposed increases, however, are so small that they will have but little effect on the average consumer but are sufficient to give the water department adequate returns. It has been estimated that the increased cost to the average consumer, that is the household whose home is equipped with bath, and who uses some water for lawn sprinkling, will not exceed $2.50 a year. The increase for a consumer using 1,000 cubic feet of water per quarter would be $2.30 per year, but less than 25 per cent of all the water department patrons use as much as 1,000 feet a quarter.

City Bill Increased
The increase to the city of Appleton as a municipality will be about 80 per cent, however. The present schedule provides a rate of $19,000 for fire protection and this rental also includes the water required for flushing the streets, filling drinking fountains, operating bubblers and fountains. The proposed schedule fixes the fire protection charge at $31,000. This includes only the water consumed, the proposed increase is from 75 cents to $1.20 per quarter, an increase of 60 per cent. The present rates for meters with larger pipe connections are said to be more equitable and as a result the proposed rates are relatively not as large. For instance, the increase for meters with a one inch connection is only 30 1/2 per cent.

The proposed increases for water used by meter hit the small consumer much harder than the large, but they are quite small and do not make much of a dent in the pocketbook.

Meter Rate Boosted
The present net rate for the first 1,000 cubic feet of water is 19 cents per hundred cubic feet. The new schedule calls for a rate of 22 cents for the first five hundred feet. The old schedule's next rate is for the next 5,000 feet at 17 cents per hundred but the proposed schedule fixes the second 500 feet at 21 cents per hundred; the next 3,000 at 19 cents per hundred and the next 6,000 at 17 cents per thousand, which is the same rate as the old schedule provides for the entire meter reading between 1,000 and 10,000 cubic feet. The remainder of the old and new schedules are identical with the exception of consumption of over 1,000,000 cubic feet per quarter where the rate is increased from one cent to two cents per hundred cubic feet.

It is evident that the only increase asked for will affect the small consumers. This was done because the rates for larger consumption are quite equitable while the small consumer has been getting his water service far below cost.

No Fire Service
The application for increased rates specifies that no free service shall be given to schools, fire stations, public buildings or for street sprinkling or for any purpose. Water service for those purposes shall be supplied thru meters wherever practical and where this cannot be done the supply is to be determined on a fair basis and shall be charged for at the published rates.

Rates for private fire protection service, where automatic sprinkler systems or standpipes are permanently connected with the mains, are increased about 20 per cent in the proposed schedule. If these connections are used for any other purpose than fire protection the regular meter rates shall apply.

The metered rates for emergency service are materially increased. In the case of a five fifths connection the increase is 60 per cent; for a three quarter inch connection the increase is 20 per cent for a one inch connection the boost is 50 per cent.

LINK SINN FEIN WITH SLAYING OF BRITISH OFFICERS

Barricades Are Built Around
Government Offices and Lloyd George.

By United Press Leased Wire
Dublin—British government agents were reported today to have discovered evidence in the series of raids now under way which link up Sinn Fein leaders with officers of the republican army in the "murder campaign."

According to unofficial reports the Sinn Fein officials were principally active in collecting funds for the army, which was said to have planned the more important of the slayings of British policemen and officials. Twenty important arrests had been made up to an early hour today, including those of Arthur Griffith, acting head of the Sinn Fein; Professor McNeill and Eamon Dugan. The latter two are members of parliament. It was believed all of those arrested will be interned. Hundreds of others were taken later.

Announcement was made today that the labor commission would come to Ireland on Tuesday to investigate reprisals.

Build Barricades
By United Press Leased Wire
London—Heavy barricades with loopholes for rifle and machine gun fire were being erected today in Downing street and St. Charles street near the official residence of Prime Minister Lloyd George.

An unusually large police guard went on duty at the premier's residence.

There was much military attendance upon the building of the sinister looking barricades.

Some newspapers hinted a Sinn Fein plot had been discovered.

Blue And Grey Meet For Annual Gridiron Battle

By United Press Leased Wire
Navy scored a touchdown and goal kick shortly after the start of the fourth period.

Polo Grounds, New York—The heat of the navy game, the fray of the army, the hostile and hostile of forty thousand spectators seeking their seats, a gorgeous mass of flags and colors filled the hollow of Coogan's Bluff here this afternoon for the 23rd battle of the Army against the Navy.

Skies as sombre as the grey draped stands of the army hung over the field.

Rugged battle worn old generals and colonels with yards of gold service braid on their arms and decorations galore hustled good naturedly with young upstarts of second lieutenants, many of whom as cadets saw the Army vanquished last year by the Navy.

The Army section came suddenly to life when the center field gates swung open and the cadet regiment marched in to the tune of a bugle corps. Hundreds of grey clad cadets, marching in perfect step, long lines of superb specimens of American youth, with heads in high and capes thrown back over their shoulders, made an inspiring sight.

Friends, before and after the game, always the cadets gave a great whoop when the big gates again opened and exposed a sea of Navy blue on the outside.

Headed by Midshipman Apollo Soucek, of Oklahoma, the regimental commander, the middies filed in behind the marine band.

General Nivelle, French hero of Verdun, stepped martially into the field with Secretary Baker and the gray stands gave him a tremendous army yell.

MARY PICKFORD TRIES TO QUASH NEVADA ACTION

Attorneys for Movie Star Want to Kill Effort to Annul
Mary's Divorce.

EXPECT BITTER FIGHT

State Charges Mary Never Intended to Take Up Residence in Nevada.

Minden, Nev.—A long and spirited court fight over the legality of the divorce of Mary Pickford, film favorite, from Owen Moore, actor, was a practical certainty today when attorneys here for the argument of the motion of Mary's attorneys to quash the action brought by the state of Nevada to annul her divorce.

One of the first moves, it was learned, will probably be an attempt by attorneys for the state to disqualify Judge Langum who is presiding in the case. He is the judge that granted the original divorce.

Whichever way the decision on today's motion goes, attorneys said, an appeal will be taken to the supreme court of Nevada.

Since obtaining a divorce from Moore, Miss Pickford has married Douglas Fairbanks. The state's suit to annul the decree was filed on the ground that Miss Pickford falsely represented that she intended to make Nevada her home when she instituted her action in this state's courts.

Gavin McNab, San Francisco, and W. A. McCarron, Reno, were the lawyers representing Mary Pickford here today.

They were ready to argue in support of her motion that the state's suit to annul be quashed. They contended the superior court has no jurisdiction in the case and that the state is not the proper plaintiff in such a proceeding.

Attorney Gen. W. B. Fowler appeared personally for the state. There were no famous film stars present. It was understood, however, that both Miss Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks were keeping in close touch with the proceedings by telephone and telegraph.

It looked as if the arguments would be made before "standing room only" crowds. They attracted almost as much attention as the appearance of Mary herself in the little town of Minden. A large number of ranchers came in for the last night with their wives, in order to be present.

If the court refuses to quash the state's proceedings, the next step will be trial of the suit to annul the divorce.

MANY AMERICANS TO SEE OBREGON INAUGURATED

San Antonio, Texas—Six governors, lieutenant governors and one governor-elect left San Antonio today on the "inauguration special" for the City of Mexico where they will witness, as the invited guests of the Mexican government, the ceremonies inducting Gen. Alvaro Obregon into the presidency of the southern republic Dec. 1. The following governors and lieutenant governors with their parties left here: Gov. E. M. Russell, of Mississippi; Lieut. Gov. Trapp, of Oklahoma; Gov. Thomas E. Kilby, of Alabama; Lieut. Gov. Charles D. Huffman, of Kansas; and Gov. W. P. Hobby, of Texas.

MISSING MAN'S AID MAY RECOVER STOLEN BONDS

St. Paul—John Doughty, charged with the theft of $100,000 in bonds following the mysterious disappearance of Ambrose J. Small, millionaire theatre owner of Toronto, was due in Chicago today to call for the bonds. Police accompanying him to Toronto said he had deposited the bonds in a Chicago bank.

Doughty was arrested in Oregon City, Oregon, last Monday after a search of nearly a year. Doughty "joshed" reporters and denied any knowledge of the whereabouts of Small.

German Crimes No Worse Than Those of Enemies, Dernburg Tells League

WORK ON PLAN TO CONTROL SALE OF WAR MATERIALS

Lord Cecil Says Government of League Is Still In Infancy Stage.

By United Press Leased Wire
Geneva—The league of nations commission on disarmament has authorized Sir Cecil Hurst to draw up a tentative plan permitting the league to exercise the most effective control over trade in war materials.

The third commission has named a sub-committee of ten to draft the final project for an international tribunal which will be presented to the league assembly within a fortnight. The commission has decided to retain the amendment to the Brussels court and start with the project of jurisdiction only if public opinion so demands.

When the assembly adopts the final draft it will immediately establish the international court or ask the governments to call an international convention to inaugurate it.

Lord Cecil in an interview declared that the government of the league is nebulous, that it is "a great experiment" and "in no way ironclad." It merely consists, he said, of the broad principles of a scheme which can be modified and amended most readily.

"The assembly has done far more than I expected," he said.

"It has taken larger views and made greater efforts to accomplish its plan. Before it adjourns it will have reached decisions on such questions as an international court, started the machinery for universal disarmament, perfected its organization, admitted new members, formulated a typhus campaign, and will, I hope, have assisted in solving the Polish and Armenian difficulties."

Regarding the questions of mandates, Cecil holds the view they are virtually perpetual and irrevocable but that the recipients are bound by certain rules. He said mandates should be regarded as deeds of trust and not as guardianships. They may be revoked when the territories attain maturity and are able to govern themselves.

BARGE, WITH 18 ON BOARD, IS MISSING

Chilean Vessel Is Driven Ashore
During Storm on Pacific Coast.

By United Press Leased Wire
Portland, Ore.—Fears for the safety of the steel barge W. J. Pierre and the eighteen persons aboard were expressed in shipping circles here today.

The Pierre, flying the Chilean flag, went ashore during the night on James island off Quillayute, Wash.

Rescue was almost impossible today because of the giant waves dashing over the jagged rocks. An eighty mile gale was blowing.

The barge, loaded with lumber, was being towed by the steamer Santa Rita, bound from Tacoma to the west coast of South America, when she was driven ashore. Due to the heavy seas, it was necessary for the Santa Rita to cut loose the Pierre. The Santa Rita is reported to be standing by to give any possible aid.

The barge Pierre has a crew of 18, besides Captain A. B. Jensen, his wife and child.

Shipping men here declared today that the storm which raged off the north Pacific coast last night was one of the worst blows in years. Outboard vessels were lying in sheltered spots wherever possible.

A wireless from the government tug Snowhomish early today said that after an all night search for the barge, no trace of the vessel had been found.

Former German Propagandist Declares Germany Chafes More Under Accusations of Criminality Than Under Eco- nomic Burdens Imposed by Peace Treaty—Says All Na- tions Are Guilty.

(By Carl D. Groat)
By United Press Leased Wire
Berlin—Germany feels that in her conduct of the war she was not more criminal than the allies and she is not seeking forgiveness from herself or others, according to Dr. Bernhard Dernburg.

In a remarkable open letter to Foreign Minister Puerrydon of Argentina, who is attending the league of nations meeting in Geneva, Dernburg stated today that he could not condemn the sinking of the Lusitania without disloyalty to his country.

Dernburg declared Germany is "willing to prove the measures and means used by Germany, during this war, were, neither in proportion nor kind, worse or more criminal than those used by our adversaries," and asserted that "we neither seek excuse or ask forgiveness from others or ourselves."

In explaining why he addressed the letter to Puerrydon, Dernburg said: "You were the first to stress so sincerely and energetically the necessity for the league comprising all the great powers. You also were the only one to find encouraging words in recognition of Germany's loyalty in carrying out the treaty. This is the reason I venture to address you."

Object to Sigma
Dernburg said the German people were not hurt so much by the economic and financial stipulations of the treaty but the spirit with which they were branded with the stigma of moral unworthiness "destroying at the outset the spirit and good will, without which the league cannot survive."

He demanded that the treaty change the condemnation of Germany "in a spirit of justice."

"Few will consider the present league structure a fitting instrument to attain fulfillment of its sublime task to secure peace on earth through cooperation of all men," Dernburg wrote.

The majority of those at the conference, however, believe in the possibility of its perfection."

Dernburg pointed out former Premier Clemenceau's accusations against Germany made under the treaty.

Does Not Deny Crimes
"We do not deny that during the progress of the massacre the world has just passed through, much frightfulness and oppression was practiced on our side. These are the accompaniments of every war. It will always be difficult to distinguish between murder under the sanctioned rules of international law and the misdeeds that lie beyond this line."

The writer said Germany does not excuse its war deeds, but will gladly try its war guilt and that others ought to do the same. He held that German hate has been propagandized by a powerful press. He pointed out he himself was a propagandist and had to give up his work in New York after the sinking of the Lusitania "which I could not condemn without disloyalty to my country."

Dernburg declared if justice is to reign in the league a statement must be made that all belligerents are sinners, that all were members of the "old system" and that all aspired to the same political ideals and hence must bear the same burden. He demanded that the league scrutinize all condemnatory judgement in the treaty.

"Germany is confident of the outcome and is willing to meet the sacrifices imposed," he concluded.

"She only asks justice."

KANSAS FARMERS WILL NOT CUT WHEAT ACREAGE

Stopeka, Kans.—There is no wheat strike in Kansas insofar as decreased production is concerned according to a report by Secretary Mohler, of the state board of agriculture.

While Kansas farmers may be holding some of the 1920 crop for higher prices, they have already sown nearly as large an acreage this fall as a year ago. This fall's sowing is the third largest in the history of the state and only six per cent below that of a year ago and 15 per cent below the record.

Ardmore, Okla.—With a bullet hole through his heart, the body of J. E. Lamb, prominent oil operator of this city, was found beside the Santa Fe railroad tracks near here today.

By United Press Leased Wire
Ardmore, Okla.—A "woman hunt" was on throughout the southwest today.

Police in every city from Kansas City to the Pacific coast were searching for Mrs. Clara Smith Hamon, charged with bringing the shot which later proved fatal to Jake L. Hamon, millionaire oil man and republican national committeeman.

Since the woman disappeared soon after Hamon's shooting came to light, she has been variously reported fleeing to California, seen in Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Chickasha and Ardmore, Okla., with police in Kansas City and northern Texas entertaining suspicion that she might be hiding in their territory.

Her trunks are reported held in union station at Kansas City with detectives watching for possible claimants. Her parents live in El Paso.

The insistent desire of Mrs. Clara Hamon to view the remains of the man with whom she had been associated for many years may draw her out of hiding, County Attorney Russell Brown believed. Local activities of the prosecution have been halted pending funeral and burial of the man who helped build this section of the state.

Friends of Hamon, however, continued their efforts to clear his name of scandal.

Mrs. Clara Smith Hamon is described as strikingly pretty, being dark complexioned with dark brown hair and eyes. Her age is given as 27.

She wore many diamond rings. Hamon's body will lie in state in convention hall until Monday morning. The funeral will be held from the First Presbyterian church Monday afternoon. Burial will be in Rosewood cemetery.

Oil dealers in the blue flannel shirts and greater overalls mingled with millionaire operators, politicians and women in convention hall early today paying last respects to the man who built towns, railroads and was a founder of Oklahoma's hidden wealth. Telegrams of condolence from prominent men throughout the United States flooded the little telegraph office here.

Hamon's son enroute from Chicago was expected to join Mrs. Jake Hamon and daughter here today.

Mrs. Hamon continued to express faith in her husband.

Sunday Blue Law Workers Meet Bitter Opposition

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—The fight for "blue Sunday" legislation in thirty state legislatures fanned by the Lord's Day Alliance, became more bitter today with various organizations lining up for or against the question.

James A. Flaherty, head of the Knights of Columbus, announced that the organization did not oppose "sane reform" but said the Knights of Columbus was against prohibition of Sunday sports.

Samuel Compers, head of the American Federation of Labor, today denounced those back of the "Puritan drive" for assuming they are working in behalf of the laboring man.

"Labor has not called on them for assistance and they cannot speak for labor," said Compers.

"The man who works has a right to spend Sunday in wholesome recreation," said many of the Anti-Saloon league, which played a big part in making the country dry, have joined the new movement.

Dr. E. C. Dinwiddie, who is centering his efforts on the District of Columbia, said it was the plan to have congress pass strict Sunday laws for the district and for insular possessions, army and navy reservations, as the first step in the fight.

Later, it is understood, agitation will be started for an amendment to the constitution which will form the basis for strict Sabbath laws. Putting the ban on Sunday theatres, cigar stores, soda fountains, gas stations and newspapers is contemplated.

Dr. Harry L. Rowley, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, asked heads of New York transportation lines to curtail service on Sunday so as just to meet needs of churchgoers. Similar requests will be made in other cities.

Steiner Knows Immigrant And His Problems

Sunday Evening Forum Speaker Is One of Best Platform
Talkers in America.

If there is any man in America who knows the immigrant and the difficulties which he must surmount in this land of promise, it is Dr. Edward A. Steiner, who speaks at Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening under auspices of Appleton Public Forum. Dr. Steiner has spent many months in Europe, studying the immigrant in his home; he has travelled in steerage across the Atlantic to learn of the immigrant's aspirations and hopes; he worked at Ellis Island where the immigrant first sets foot on American soil, and he has followed the course of the new citizen after he has been admitted into America.

Business men the country over regard the immigration problem as the most important confronting them. They are making a careful, if somewhat belated, study of that problem and they call on men like Dr. Steiner for expert advice.

Not only does Dr. Steiner know the immigrant but he knows how to speak. He is a master of platform technique. He can sway his audience in a manner that is amazing and he drives home his subject in a forceful manner. Dr. Steiner is regarded as one of the best platform speakers in America and will probably present one of the finest talks on the forum program.

The Lawrence chapel organ, which has been out of commission for several weeks, has been repaired and will be used Sunday night. Miss Doris Brenner, organist at First Congregational church, will present the following program: "Pilgrims' Chorus," from Tannhauser, by Wagner; "Aurum Schenk," by Brewer; "At Twilight," by Stebbins.

Community singing will be under the leadership of E. H. Harwood.

LIFT PRIORITY ORDERS ON COAL

Improvement in Transportation
Situation Results in Lifting Restrictions.

Washington, D. C.—Because of the improved coal situation, the interstate commerce commission today removed all orders giving priority to coal movements and all orders requiring open top coal cars to be moved exclusively to the mines.

"We are convinced that the emergency which prompted the authorization of these rules has in large measure passed," said the commission's order.

The order removing priorities becomes effective Monday and the removal of the open top car order will become effective as soon as railroads can file the necessary responses.

All special priority orders giving preference to coal moving to certain territories had been removed before issuance of the order today.

There remained only the general order requiring priority in loading and movement of coal in all territories east of the rocky mountains.

5,673 Fords in One Day

By United Press Leased Wire
Detroit, Mich.—The world's record for automobile production in a single day was broken at the Ford Motor company's plant here Thursday when 5,673 "Henrys" were turned out.

Of this number, 4,061 were turned out in completed cars at the close of the day. Production continued at the Ford plant at an average of 4,000 cars a day, it was announced today.

The banks closed yesterday were at Fairwood and Rheme.

There is no prospect of improving the financial situation until farmers sell their crops and liquidate their obligations or the Bank of North Dakota is able to renew deposits in the small banks either with public funds or re-deposits of individual accounts, bankers said.

Efforts are being made to forestall extensive withdrawal of public funds from the state bank beginning Dec. 2. Bank officials look for withdrawal of about $1,500,000 within a short time.

MORE MONEY IS NEEDED TO MEET U. S. EXPENSES

Must Either Increase Revenues or Issue Bonds, Treasury Men Say.

CANNOT REDUCE TAXATION

Decrease in Profits Reduces
Revenue From Excess Profits Taxes.

(By Herbert W. Walker)
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The next congress may be confronted with the necessity of either increasing tax rates or providing for another issue of long term bonds, according to preliminary surveys of the financial situation made for members of the house ways and means committee by treasury officials.

Indications are chances are poor for even slight reductions of a few of the most obnoxious taxes. Some increased levies, particularly on non-essentials, will be recommended when congress reconvenes, according to reports to the capital.

The probability of increases is not brought about through government expenditures. Republicans plan to reduce these. The reason is that present rates are beginning to yield far less than during the years of big war profits.

The current depression, treasury officials believe, will cut a big hole in the yield of the excess profits tax, which has brought in a large percentage of the government revenues.

Government expenditures continue high because of the tremendous war debt of the country. The interest of which amounts to nearly $1,250,000,000 a year.

Cut Down Expense
Secretary of the Treasury Houston has estimated that for 1921 the government departments will need $4,000,000,000. Republican congressional leaders hope to reduce this total by a billion.

This would make revenues of $3,000,000,000 necessary. The belief prevails in the reports reaching congressmen that the present taxer soon will not be yielding at the rate of $3,000,000,000 annually.

Representative Kitchen, North Carolina, framer of the present revenue law, is inclined to think there will be no big demand for the immediate repeal of the excess profits law, when congress reconvenes.

"The reason is that if the present slump continues so many less people will have excess profits to be taxed," he said.

"The excess profits tax during the war was justified by the fact that the current depression shows the tax was not responsible for the era of high prices. The tax is still in effect but prices have dropped."

Senator Underwood, of Alabama, democratic leader of the senate, predicted today on his return to Washington, that the proposed resolution declaring a state of peace with Germany would not be adopted at the December session of congress.

In the reports reaching congressmen that the present taxer soon will not be yielding at the rate of $3,000,000,000 annually.

SPEND $5,000,000 TO REPAIR BOATS

One Company Presents Bill for $49.75 to Repair 50 Cent Hinge.

By United Press Leased Wire. New York—Harold F. Haines, a junior examiner for the Emergency Fleet corporation, testified today in the congressional investigation of the shipping board.

He said the government was spending $5,000,000 a month for repairs on shipping board vessels at the present time. This was based, he testified, on conditions in the port of New York. Last January, he said, a government vessel repaired by Crumps of Philadelphia, was considered unseaworthy by its crew which signed a sealed statement and left it behind to be opened in event anything happened to the ship. The ship, he said, was disabled 400 miles out. He did not know what became of the sealed statement. Haines also testified that a hinge

Matthew Woll, eighth vice president of the American Federation of Labor, president of the International Photo-Engravers' union, and one of the most brilliant leaders in the federation of labor, will be the attraction at the second program of Appleton Community Lecture and Art series. He will discuss "Organized Labor and Democracy," at Lawrence Memorial Chapel Tuesday evening, Nov. 30. The meeting is to begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Whenever there is a vital question concerning the welfare of labor or the relation of capital and labor confronting the American people, newspaper correspondents seek out Mr. Woll to learn his opinions because he is regarded as one of the soundest thinkers in the labor federation. He is a graduate of Lake Forest academy, Chicago Kent College of Law and is a well known lawyer. He has been attending conventions of the federation of labor since 1909 and has headed several of the federation's most important committees.

There are many well informed men who believe that Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, is groomed for Mr. Woll as his successor when he retires. Mr. Gompers holds Mr. Woll in the highest esteem and he is also respected by capitalists and employers. Reserved seat tickets for the lecture will go on sale at nine o'clock Monday morning at the Y. M. C. A. Membership tickets may be purchased until December 1. After that date only single admissions will be available.

EXPECT 70 AT NEWSBOYS' BOY SCOUT GATHERING

More than seventy carriers and substitute carriers of the Appleton Post-Crest are expected to attend the meeting at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening in the council chambers of the city hall to organize a troop of the boy scouts. There are more than enough boys to organize two troops and it is probable this will be done if enough interest is shown.

One of the features of the meeting will be a demonstration of boy scout work by an organized troop. Addresses will be given by Gustave Keller and E. R. Henderson.

Members of the proposed troop will be given an opportunity to earn their uniforms.

CONNECT TWO ENDS OF CONCRETE ROAD

The county highway commission took advantage of the recent warmer weather to complete a short stretch of concrete pavement which connects the Dale and Hortonville highways in the vicinity of the Triangle school. The work was delayed because of shortage of materials and was practically abandoned until spring. Arrival of both materials and favorable weather made it possible to complete the work.

HERMAN ERB
The passing of Herman Erb removes from Appleton another of its best known and most highly respected citizens. The death of Mr. Erb rounded out a financial and business career second to none spent in Appleton.

He was Appleton's veteran banker, having been engaged in the banking business in this city since 1861. He was one of the organizers of The First National bank and was associated with that institution until his death. As the institution grew, his prominence in connection with it became greater. He was at first its cashier, and later became its president, a position which he held until the consolidation of The Commercial National Bank with the First National Bank last year.

Among Mr. Erb's friends were hundreds who came in contact with him in a business way, and who always found him fair in his dealings. He will be sadly missed throughout the community.

SHIPPING BOARD GRAFT
There have been sundry scandals and much waste in the operations of the shipping board. That much is admitted. And now Mr. Gillen, the expert testifying before the congressional committee, declares that the loss to the country because of our government shipping activities will reach two billion dollars.

That sounds sinister and appalling to the man who reads the headlines only. He will believe that the shipping board, and, likely enough, other of the government organizations are riddled by graft. But Mr. Gillen arrives at his total by adding several accounts—overpayment of claims, disappearance of material and shrinkage in value being among them. And a billion and a quarter is charged to shrinkage, or depreciation, alone.

This shrinkage in value was inevitable. We built our new marine at a time when the allies felt assured that ships would win the war, and hence cost was a secondary concern. Not a ship slid off the ways that was not constructed on an artificial price scale. We were working under forced draft with accomplishment the one concern. With the war ended there was bound to be an enormous depreciation in value and this was a genuine war loss as much as was the ammunition fired at the enemy.

The other losses were avoidable but in the end we shall doubtless find that they were due rather to incompetence and lack of good organization than to crookedness. Doubtless graft played a part but on the whole a very minor part. We all have hundreds of friends in whom we have the greatest confidence. Through our association with them we come to believe that the great majority of people are honest. Doubtless each of us has had the experience of seeing at least one trusted pal go wrong. Certainly all of us have read of men entrusted with high official position so doing. But such things are rare exceptions among our hundred million people, though cynics make them their basis for laughing at virtue, saying that "we never know how many persons are crooked because it is only those who get caught whose names get into print."

That is pessimism. It must be remembered that while honest men are willing to take honest parts in every great undertaking grafters go about looking for opportunities to graft. Naturally numbers of them collect in definite spots where grafting and dishonesty is practical and yields big results. When they are uncovered it looks as though the whole organization was rotten. It's like digging out a rat's nest. Because a nest of dishonest ones is found in a great organization is no more proof that the entire organization is composed of grafters than is the finding of a rat's nest in a barn or henhouse a proof that the cows and chickens are rats.

It is always a shock to learn of dishonesty in government affairs but such discoveries need not shatter our faith in humanity nor in government.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM
Sunday evening at Lawrence Memorial Chapel the citizens of Appleton will have the opportunity of hearing Dr. Edward A. Steiner, a world-wide authority and expert on immigration problems, as the fourth number of the People's Forum series of meetings and discussions.

At the present time immigration presents a problem which is occupying the minds of hundreds of government officials. It presents a problem in which every laboring man, business man, and professional man is intensely interested, and to hear this vital problem discussed by an expert in his line is an opportunity which should be taken advantage of by every man and woman in Appleton.

After all, the entire work of the People's Forum is one of genuine community service. The Forum is in actuality as well as in name "The People's Forum." It is not a movement for any one class of Appleton citizens. For all classes, and all creeds, it presents an excellent opportunity for getting together and hearing the problems of the day discussed by speakers who have made a study of their topic and are capable of presenting their subject in an intelligent, manner. These speakers leave the imprint of their personality and message upon the city and it is an influence which brings about a better understanding in our civic affairs, in our common problems and in our every day life.

Appleton is indeed fortunate in having this Forum. Several hundreds of persons have enjoyed the first three meetings, but there is still room for improvement in the attendance. There should not be a single vacant seat in the big auditorium when Dr. Steiner starts his lecture Sunday evening, and every meeting to follow is deserving of a capacity attendance.

It is the People's Forum and it is the people's duty to get the most out of it by attending every meeting. It is deserving and should have the people's support.

TODAY'S POEM
(By Edmund Vance Cooke)
AS IT OUGHT TO BE
Now, football as it ought to be
Is not as it was taught to me,
For when the captain cries his call
And makes obeisance to the ball,
He ought to use a lucid English
Which anybody might distinguish.
But does he do so? Does he?
The figures of his speech betray
Direct intent, as I believe,
Well calculated to deceive.
(Two seventy-five, thirteen, eleven Ten off for cash, plus fifty-seven)
Which surely, as we all are sensible,
Is nothing less than reprehensible.
And when the runner has the ball,
He's almost sure to have a fall.
A fall provoked to some extent,
By rival lads, on mischief bent.
Truly such conduct, coarse and rude,
Excites a deep solicitude.
Lost strife for physical ability
Affect their natural gentility.
Better by far it were, I say,
To cheer the runner on his way
And all his rivals, in succession,
Applaud his metrical progression.
Lest in the conflict of their banners
They lose their modesty of manners.
Football, if I conceive it rightly,
Might be improved and played politely.
I'm very sure some rule is needed
That runners should not be impeded.
For, if they are, 'tis my contention
'Tis almost sure to cause dissension.
Which mars that suave, serene urbanity
The game should foster in humanity.
Let, then, each greeting and response
Be ever "After you, Alphonse!"
And football be the crown and chiasm
Symbolic of Man's Altruism!

AN ENTHUSIAST
(By Dr. James I. Vance)
What is an enthusiast? He is something more than a man with a hallucinatory type of mind. He is not to be confounded with the individual whose distinguishing characteristics are an explosive vocabulary and a monopoly of the exclamation point in punctuation. He is not merely the leader of a mob, the organizer of discontent, the author of the contributed articles in the daily paper telling us how the town should be run, the patron saint of anything that is startling and original.

The enthusiast is a promoter, but he is something besides. He has vision, but he is not visionary. He has big ideas, but he does not despise details. He believes in the future, but he is not contemptuous of the past. He has temperance, but he also has a sense of humor. He possesses ginger, but he does not lack grit.

Yes, the enthusiast is all this, and considerably more. He is what his name indicates if he is a true enough enthusiast and not merely a tinsel counterfeiter with a tin horn.

An enthusiast is one whose life is in gear with the infinite. Therefore difficulties do not discourage him nor obstacles stop him. He is not bothered by poverty, for he feels that he is here not to see what he can get out of life but what he can put into it. He is not concerned about what other people may do for him, but what he may be able to do for them.

He does not worship the payroll. You cannot commercialize a true enthusiast. He is willing to suffer for his idea. He rather enjoys the persecution that gives publicity to his work and helps along his cause.

He sees barriers, but does more. He sees through barriers. He sees over barriers. He sees the unseen and hears the inaudible. Therefore he is full of confidence when clay souls despair.

Nothing great can be done without enthusiasm. The enthusiast leads the way. He may be the victim of today, but he is the victor of tomorrow.

PUFFY EYELIDS
A reader requests me to tell her what causes puffiness under the eyes and what to do about it. Probably the most common cause is matutinal hebetude. That sounds almost as serious as the hypothetical "liver complaint" of the old time allopathic quacks, but it isn't at all serious. It is just a sort of morning laziness. Late hours, insufficient sleep, too much to eat, too much to drink, and late rising are the usual factors of matutinal hebetude.

Many adults of thirty or older, particularly women, have puffiness of the eyelids not alone in the morning but all the time, as one expression of a state of hypothyroidism or partial myxedema, an impairment of thyroid gland function.

Persons taking arsenic or afflicted with insidious chronic arsenic poisoning from occupational exposures are likely to have puffiness of the eyelids or of the whole face early in the day. Some misguided women still trifle with arsenic as a drug, because some ignoramus has told them that it beautifies the complexion, the notion probably having originated from the beautiful ghastly white skin of one dead of arsenic poisoning. Other drug poisons which sometimes cause puffiness of the eyelids are aspirin, the iodides present in numerous alleged "blood purifiers," and bromides.

A sudden puffing of the lids of one or both eyes sometimes occurs in persons who have what is known as angio-neurotic edema or giant hives. In such cases the swelling disappears as suddenly and inexplicably as it comes.

Prolonged crying causes swelling of the eyelids in some persons. Severe fits of coughing, as in whooping cough, will produce puffiness of the eyelids.

In certain cases of chronic nephritis (Bright's disease) there is noticeable puffiness under the eyes mornings. In many cases of established cardiovascular disease or hardening of the arteries puffiness under the eyes is permanent.

These are the chief causes of puffiness of the eyes and everyone so afflicted is ardently invited to study the list over at his leisure and help himself to any of the causes enumerated, if he finds a good fit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Manipulation
For the past year or more I have noticed when I sit working at the typewriter for two or three hours at a stretch I begin to feel a pain right at the top of the spine. I consulted a rub doctor and he told me I would have to take care or I might get locomotor ataxia. I have had about ten treatments from him so far, but I seem to get the pain the same before I work long at the typewriter. What should I do? I am 40 years of age and have always before been quite well. (Miss D. L.)

ANSWER—The "rub doctor" is trying to frighten you. No one ever gets locomotor ataxia from any such cause, and all the rubbing in the world would not prevent locomotor ataxia in any case. You probably suffer from fatigue and bad posture at work. Or just fatigue. Get up and stretch, and if there is room in the hall or somewhere, roll yourself two or three somersaults to take the kink out of your muscles. Then go back to work—locomotor ataxia all cured.

Tooth Soap
Some time ago someone asked you for a good tooth paste and you recommended plain soap. I use soap for my teeth and would like to know if it will do any harm. (L. S.)

ANSWER—The brand is immaterial, provided the soap is not gritty and you do not mind the taste.

Cystitis
What causes cystitis of the bladder? Is it curable? Would it help to have a series of bladder washes given by a nurse under a physician's directions? (Mrs. N. A. C.)

ANSWER—Cyst means bladder or sac. Cystitis is inflammation of a bladder. The cause is some bacterial infection. Irrigation of the infected bladder often gives great relief. Most cases of cystitis are curable.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Saturday, Nov. 30, 1895
A new metallic telephone circuit was being built from Appleton to Stevens Point.

The "Wilson gang" left for Georgia and Florida, where he expected to spend the winter.

The name of Little Kaukauna, between Kaukauna and De Pere, was changed to Little Rapids.

P. Altenhoffen, a machinist in the employ of one of the local foundries, accidentally amputated his finger by a mistroke of an axe.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Thompson celebrated their silver wedding anniversary.

After Dec. 1 all the western railways including those entering Appleton were to charge a minimum rate of 25 cents for carrying bicycles which were to be checked as baggage.

The "Wilson gang" which had its headquarters in Menasha and which was terrorizing all the country along the "Coup road," in the vicinity of the summer beaches south of the city was broken up by Winnebago and Calumet officers who captured the entire band including the leaders. The gang had a hut in the woods near Waverly beach, where it hid in time of trouble, and which it had salted with dynamite so that when the officers attempted its removal it exploded, the officers narrowly escaping serious injury.

Harry Pratt of the postoffice force had just received a handsome open-top car which he received from the publishers of the Youth's Companion as a premium for being one of the first of five thousand persons to send in a certain number of new subscribers.

LINERS TO HAVE LANDING 'FIELDS'
London.—Future oceanic liners will be built with a landing "field" for airplanes so they may bring mail to the passengers, according to the prediction of Air Marshal Sir H. M. Trenchard, chief of the British air staff.

DRIVER DIDN'T KEEP BARGAIN
London.—Jack Crawford is in jail here charged with stealing a motor lorry and a load of wool worth $10,000. Crawford, it is held, persuaded the driver of the truck, owned by the government, to deliver the goods to him and then report they were stolen. The driver followed orders, but he wasn't a good liar, say the police, and they arrested Crawford.

—AND LOST ALL THE BEER
Glasgow, Scotland.—"A" he threw a jug at me that broke over my head and lost all the beer out of it," complained Mrs. Sarah McKenzie in court here of her husband. "We couldn't afford to lose so much beer, your ludship."

HE EXPLAINED, BUT IT DIDN'T MEAN MUCH
London.—With a hammer carrying a label, "Justice for the Disabled," Matthew J. Seabury, an ex-soldier, was arrested, beating a huge painting of "The Light of the World," in St. Paul's Cathedral, "I did it on behalf of the ex-soldiers," explained he non-explainingly. The Guest Of The Lone Wolf.
By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C. — This sounds like a title for a movie, but it is really an accurate description of a job just finished by H. P. Williams of Custer, South Dakota, who is one of the most expert and successful of the small standing army of trappers employed by the Biological Survey in its work of exterminating predatory animals.

Williams was directed to spend all of his time in the task of getting one old and cunning wolf, which had been dining on beef and eluding rifle, trap, dogs and poison for years. Ranchmen had despaired of ever catching this old prairie pirate, but word has just been received at the Biological Survey that Williams has been successful in his long hunt. The hide of the Dakota freebooter will probably be in Washington before long.

If you think that the pursuit of a single wolf is an inadequate occupation for a Government employee, you should be informed that this wolf is estimated to have destroyed $25,000 worth of beef and mutton during his lifetime, and that he was piling up the score at the rate of more than a thousand dollars a year.

This wolf had developed a cunning which compares favorably with the expert in the art of evasions of the most cunning of the human race. For example, when he killed a cow, it was his custom to travel a few miles, and then come back, paralleling his first track at a distance of a few rods. He then returned to the edge of the thick timber, and waited. When bounds were put on his track, he watched them go by, and retired to safety in one direction while they were going in the other.

A Hard Job
To find and kill a single wolf in a large and broken wilderness might seem a hopeless task, but the Government hunters have gotten their methods of work down pretty fine. They know that a wolf, like a man, is a creature of habit. However widely he may range, he always returns to the same places eventually.

Furthermore, wolves are also like men and like most creatures, in that they cannot do wholly without others of their kind. Wolves have signboards, as have dogs, where passers-by register their presence for the information of the next comer. By following these canine registers, the hunters can map the range of a wolf or that of a band of wolves with tolerable accuracy. He usually finds that a wolf travels in a great circle, sometimes a hundred and fifty miles in circumference. He never kills twice in succession in the same vicinity, but the hunter may nevertheless guess about where the next kill will be.

Wolves soon learn how to detect poison in meat, and express their scorn of such crude methods by scratching dirt over the poisoned bait. Poison will kill out the young and foolish animals in a region when it is first used there, but the survivors are wise and cannot be taken that way. Trappers use a more reliable method, but the wolves soon get wise to these, too. The utmost precautions must be used to hide the scent of iron. The hunter stands on a calf hide while setting the trap, he smokes the trap itself and handles it with blood-soaked gloves. Even so, the wolf who is old and wise often walks around the trap as carefully as though it were marked with a danger sign. Hunting with hounds and lying in wait with a rifle are the other chief methods.

A Survival Of Early Days
The lone or gray wolf is one of the few figures of the old West that still survives. These wolves in the early days hung on the flanks of the buffalo herds in great numbers, killing off the old bulls, the strays and calves.

They were so common that buffalo hunters seldom wasted any of their precious ammunition on them. But when the buffalo herds were gone and the cattle herds, working slowly north from old Mexico, began to cover the great plains, the lobo became the greatest pest of the business. Excepting his small cousin, the coyote, he has been the hardest of all the predatory beasts to destroy. Time was when the lordly grizzly used to come far down on the plains, and kill the largest bulls with a blow of his paw. The grizzly could fight, but he could neither hide nor run very well. Before the repeating rifle he retired in dwindling numbers to the farthest recesses of the mountain canyons. He still kills a few sheep, but scarcely anywhere is he a factor in the cattle business.

But the wolves, after just about 50 years of persecution, are still very much a factor. They are greatly reduced in numbers; but nearly every section of open range country still has its little band of wolves. And their appetite for beef is enormous. It costs $1.20 a year, or more, to support every one of them. The Biological Survey has therefore decreed unmerciful war against them, and it is probable that they are doomed. In some sections, as in that where Williams hunted, only a single wolf is left. In such cases the wolf has been known to steal a march on civilization by mating with a dog and raising a litter of wolf-dogs that are just as bad as wolves, and sometimes worse.

The Wise Coyote
The little coyote, also, a true wolf, has survived the advance of civilization much better than the lobo. He is still numerous all over the West, and is reported to be extending his range eastward. The coyote does great damage to sheep, taking regularly 10 per cent of the lamb crop, in many sections of the Southwest, but he is not a menace to cattle. Furthermore, he does not depend upon stock for a living to the extent that the wolf does. If the sheep men make it too hot for him, he can retire into a desert country, where he would starve and there live on mice, lizards and an occasional jack rabbit. It is possible to reduce his numbers in sections where he is a pest, but he is in no danger whatever of being exterminated.

The one other predatory creature which engages the Government hunters is the mountain lion, puma, or panther, as it is variously called. This creature is native to almost every part of the United States, but it has been exterminated in much of the East, leaving a trail of legend and myth behind it. There is no creature about which you can hear more weird and thrilling stories. Its cry is said to be the most hair-raising sound in the world, resembling the scream of a terrified woman. It is said to trail men for days and nights, seeking a chance to pounce upon them. But there are remarkably few records of attacks on men by mountain lions, and the animal kills few cattle because it lives only in mountain country. In some sections of mountainous summer range it is very destructive to cattle and to horses, young colts being its favorite food. Few lions are killed, and they are still abundant in the Rocky Mountains.

This Government campaign against predatory animals may be regarded as a last act in the drama of subduing the wild West. When the wolves and lions are gone the western rangeland will be as tame as an Iowa hog pasture, and there will be no more need of men who can shoot a rifle and set a trap.

Q. Did the Leviathan carry cows to provide fresh milk for the soldiers? N. F.

A. The Navy Department says that while some of the transports did carry cows for this purpose, the Leviathan did not, while it was in the service of this country.

Q. Do porcupines really shoot their quills at enemies? W. S.

A. The quills of a porcupine are loosely inserted in the skin, and may, on being violently shaken, become detached—a circumstance which may have given rise to the purely fabulous statement that the animal possessed the power of actually ejecting its quills like arrows or darts at an enemy.

Q. Where is Dannemora Prison and what class of prisoners are confined there? M. G.

A. Dannemora Prison is located at Dannemora, New York, up in the mountains near Lake Champlain. The criminal insane and half-wild are confined there.

Q. What proceedings must a German citizen take who has not been in this country six years, and wishes a passport to Mexico? F. E. T.

A. A man in the United States who is a citizen of Germany will have to apply to the Consul of some foreign country, such as Holland, which has diplomatic relations with Germany as well as with the United States, in order to obtain a passport out of this country for Mexico or other countries. Owing to the fact that the United States has not resumed diplomatic relations with Germany there is no German representative in this country.

Q. What is the significance of the six stars on the soldiers' Victory Medal? M. A.

A. The Department says that the six stars on the soldiers' victory medals do not have any special significance. They were simply placed there in order to balance the rest of the design and to make the whole artistic.

are the best advertisements we have for Vassar Union Suits.

Yesterday morning, 17 men evidently awoke to the fact that they needed heavier underwear—for we rang up 17 sales of Vassar Union Suits between 9 and 6.

The heavy wooly merino we are making a special drive on at $6 was a favorite—The heavy cotton with inside fleece at $2.75 proved a value not to be resisted.

When the need for warmer combination suits urges you to action—just remember that for price and protection—warmth and value—this store has no competitor in Appleton.

TALKS ON CITIZENSHIP
By D. O. KINSMAN, Ph. D.
Professor of Economics, Lawrence College, and Educational Director of the Wisconsin Society for Civic and Economic Education.

The Organization of Congress
Three things are essential to efficiency in government. Laws must be wisely made, they must be faithfully enforced and they must be justly interpreted and applied.

To have laws wisely drawn, it has long been agreed, that many should take part in the making of them. Not only is it wise to have the wisdom of many employed in the making of laws but it is well that different classes or interests be represented. For these reasons legislative bodies have many members. To still further check unwise legislation they are organized into two houses.

The Congress of the United States is composed of the Senate and the House of Representatives. It was the intention of the framers of the Constitution that the House of Representatives should represent the people and the Senate the States.

Following each United States census, which is taken during the years ending in zero, the members of the House of Representatives are reapportioned. The House has the right to determine the number of members it shall have. The number in the present house is 435. The population to be represented in the forty-eight states as determined by the last census is then divided by the number of members in the House. This fixes the ratio of representation. At present each representative represents 211,877 persons. Each state is given one representative for each 211,877 population or major fraction thereof. On this basis Wisconsin is allowed 11 representatives. Each state is then divided by the state legislature into as many districts as the state has representatives, and the voters of each district elect the representatives from that district. Thus every section of the United States is represented in the lower house of Congress. That the people may have very complete control of their representatives, the term of office is made only two years.

The representatives are elected at the "general election" in the fall of each even numbered year and their term of office begins the fourth of March following. That the representative may fully represent his constituency, he must be an inhabitant of the state from which he is elected.

United States Judges Appointed
How are United States judges chosen? E. D. M.

Answer—All United States judges are nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate. They serve for life or during good behavior.

Qualifications of President
What qualifications, if any, must the President have? E. A. D.

Answer—The Constitution of the United States provides that the President must be a natural born citizen of the United States, thirty-five years of age and fourteen years a resident within the United States.

One Hundred Years Ago
the system of paying bills by check was introduced, and was quickly appreciated by discerning people.

It reduces the personal danger of carrying funds; makes for convenience in disbursing large or small amounts; provides for a reliable, workable record of money deposited and money spent, and lends a certain dignity to the transference of funds.

CLUB

ABOUT 500 people attended the Thanksgiving dancing party given by the recreation department of the Woman's Club Friday evening at Armory G. The party was characterized by the community spirit that prevailed. Among the dancers were a great many married people and the members of the department hope that they will all attend the Christmas party, Dec. 23.

The armory was made beautiful by the artistic use of many American flags, which were generously loaned by firms and individuals. Stecker brothers furnished excellent music. Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Keller were the chaperones, assisted by the Misses Ethel Budd and Rose E. McNevin. The girls on the committees were little red bows to distinguish them from the rest of the dancers.

The Woman's Club is standing for the proper kind of dancing and wishes to provide parties for the young people of Appleton where the right standards of dancing will be maintained.

You Can Be Free from Pain as I Am, if You Do as I Did.

Harrington, Me.—"I suffered with backache, pains through my hips and such a bearing-down feeling that I could not stand on my feet. I also had other distressing symptoms. The horse made a wild dash up the road and stopped at the gate of his stables, some 100 yards from the barn. Kamph was uninjured save for a few cuts on the forehead and a bad shaking up.

The automobile driver stopped and made some promises to settle, and drove away in his machine. Mr. Kamph did not secure his name, but when he started to pick up his belongings from the road, he found the license plate from in front of the automobile lodged in a basket of groceries. He thinks this a sufficient "calling card" to make sure that the damages will be adjusted.

SHE SAVED MONEY BY BUYING IN APPLETON

People who have been patronizing the mail order houses in the belief that they were saving money have discovered that it pays to buy at home. An Appleton woman recently compared prices and bought goods in Appleton stores where prices were lower than those of the mail order house. She purchased the balance of her merchandise from the mail order house, which quoted lower prices than the stores did. By the time the goods reached her from Chicago, the Appleton prices had fallen below those she paid the mail order house. She states that she intends to buy at home from now on.

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM COUNTY AND STATE

EXPECT FIGHT OVER MERGER OF EQUITY

Fireworks Expected When Equity Members Gather for Annual Meeting.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—The big fight in the coming annual convention of the Society of Equity, to be held in Milwaukee, will be over the proposition of merging with the Farm Bureau Federation, and the leaders in the Equity are now lining up on one side or the other, mostly "the other."

At the annual convention a year ago, held here, the fight was over the control of the Board of Directors by the Tittmore and anti-Tittmore forces, and although the anti-Tittmore forces won the election, the Tittmore forces won the majority on the board and finally secured full control.

At that convention resolution was passed looking to the merger of or with other similar organizations. It was the general belief at that time among the delegates, especially the Tittmore forces, that any merger which might be effected would mean the swallowing of the other organization by the Equity Society.

Now it is claimed by the anti-Tittmore forces that the alleged disruption of the Equity by the Tittmore crowd has made the Farm Bureau Federation the big and really leading farm organization of the country and that it is merely a question of time until it will have fully superseded the Equity. This is vigorously denied by the Tittmore leaders who claim Equity is too old and too well founded to be swallowed by any other organization. Not a few of them claim or at least intimate that it is the internal working of the Non-Partisan league.

Another claim that is made by the present Equity officials are opposing the proposed merger for selfish reasons, knowing or fearing that they will lose their positions.

This claim is also denied by the Tittmore leaders and it is said that J. N. Tittmore is at least interested in the proposed merger and may take a stand for it in the coming convention. Edward Nordman, director of the Division of Markets, and one of the Equity leaders for years, is strongly in favor of the merger. Since becoming director of the Marketing Division he has been in close touch with the workings of Farm Bureau and is said to believe it will mean more to the farmers of Wisconsin than any other organizations to which they can belong.

ously denied by the Tittmore leaders who claim Equity is too old and too well founded to be swallowed by any other organization. Not a few of them claim or at least intimate that it is the internal working of the Non-Partisan league.

Another claim that is made by the present Equity officials are opposing the proposed merger for selfish reasons, knowing or fearing that they will lose their positions.

This claim is also denied by the Tittmore leaders and it is said that J. N. Tittmore is at least interested in the proposed merger and may take a stand for it in the coming convention. Edward Nordman, director of the Division of Markets, and one of the Equity leaders for years, is strongly in favor of the merger. Since becoming director of the Marketing Division he has been in close touch with the workings of Farm Bureau and is said to believe it will mean more to the farmers of Wisconsin than any other organizations to which they can belong.

THINKS AMERICA IS LIKE HEAVEN

Russian Refugee Describes Horror of Life Under Soviet Rule.

Marquette—"Soviet Russia is hell," says the Riva Klot, Russian refugee, who arrived in Marquette accompanied by Mrs. Klot, to remain with their daughter, Mrs. J. Sidel. The aged couple were rescued by their son, Elias Klot of Cleveland, who went to Russia to look them up. They had been in America but a few hours when interviewed. Mr. Klot, seated in his daughter's home, said, "This is paradise." His son acted as interpreter.

Pardner For a Coat

When the son found his parents he scarcely recognized them so terribly had they been persecuted. They were ill clad and emaciated. Mr. Klot wore a coat made out of a portier. Before the war he was reputed to be worth $150,000, being a grain merchant at Diuna. The son was arrested and held a prisoner for three days. Finally getting into Soviet Russia, he was arrested by the bolsheviks, divested of his clothing and valuables and held a prisoner for six days, when he escaped, making his way to Witebsk. The parents got away once, but were arrested and deported back to Russia. They escaped, were re-arrested and condemned to death as spies. The American son said:

"If you shoot my parents, you must shoot me, too. I am an American citizen and the United States has a way of protecting its citizens in every part of the world."

Gazing about the room wherein he was seated, the aged refugee said:

"If this house were in Russia, the bolsheviks would take the piano for kindling wood. They would take the pictures off the wall and the rug from the floor, as they have taken everything from me. America seems like heaven to me."

WHERE THE MONEY MUST COME FROM.

Telephone facilities did not keep pace with growth, during the war, because the government put strict limits on new construction. Now labor and materials are high.

During war time, if the government income from telephone service did not pay the bills, Uncle Sam went down in his pocket and made out the deficit out of taxes.

It is really much fairer for the user of the telephone, who gets the benefit, to pay what the service is worth.

Improvements must keep pace with the public's demands, and there is no way for the Telephone Company to get the money to pay for them, except by an increase of rates.

Increased facilities increase the value of the service to every subscriber.

BET EVEN MONEY ON ARMY-NAVY BATTLE

Gold Braid and Shoulder Bars Much in Evidence at Polo Grounds.

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Within the hush of the blue and khaki, the Army and Navy this afternoon will settle a little argument of years standing.
The fleet of Uncle Sam and his land earriens must be offerees for every shoulder bar and every piece of gold braid in the service seemed congregated here for the twenty third annual football battle between the West Point cadets and the Annapolis midshipmen.
Forty five thousand, including a few civilians who knew a commander or a colonel who could get them a ticket, looked in on the game starting at two o'clock on the Polo grounds.
Hotels were flooded with uniforms. Army headquarters at the Astor was a sea of khaki in massed formation which the Prussian guards could not penetrate. Around the Commodore where the navy craft was anchored, there wasn't a thing to be seen but blue uniforms and "sweet young things."
The navy surely was living up to its reputation for having them in every corner.
Both teams worked out lightie yesterday afternoon on the Polo Grounds following which the headquarters issued communiques that the men were in good condition and should win.
In twenty two games the Army has won eleven, the Navy ten and one resulted in a tie. Thus the Navy would like to win today.

LEONARD IS STILL ENTITLED TO CROWN

Benny Beats Welling to Pulp in Fourteen Rounds of Battling.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—At least 15,000 fans hereabouts were more convinced than ever today that Benny Leonard is the lightweight champion.
For two important reasons—he made 134 pounds, less than the lightweight limit, and he beat the rugged, punishment devouring Joe Welling almost into a pulp in fourteen rounds last night in Madison Square Garden.
For twelve rounds Leonard waited his chance and seemed content to pile up a margin of points that assured him the decision if his opponent lasted the limit.
Early in the thirteenth round his chance came when he rocked Welling with a right hook to the jaw. Then the champion turned into a tiger. He opened with a fusillade of rights and lefts that sent the Chicago boy to the floor three times.
Leonard charged into him in the fourteenth round and feroed him again. Welling was helpless. He could not see, he hardly could stand and his hands were hanging limply at his side. Leonard measured his jaw and started an uppercut but stopped and looked at Referee Haukop. The official stepped between them and raised the champion's hand. Welling staggered to his corner and dropped on his stool.
The local line-up is composed of all-star college men including Kuonta, Basing, Wheeler, Smith, Tosen and Watropool. The Menasha five has most of the players of the former Twin City Cardinal team, and has added several new stars.
Bancing will follow the game, with music by the Aerial orchestra.
In the caves of the Tripoli mountains there is said to be a tribe of women that has never ventured out side.

BUSHEY TEAM WINS AGAIN FROM LAONA CAGE SQUAD

The Bushey Business college basketball team won the second game of its northern tour by defeating the Laona city team, 40 to 18. It was the second victory of the local team over the Laona men.
Laona played the visitors even for about three quarters of the game when the pace got too hot for them and the commercial students romped away with the game. Kelley, captain of last year's Bushey team, was the big star for the losers.

LAWRENCE HOMECOMING AT NEXT RIPON GAME

The second Lawrence homecoming will be held in the fall of 1921 when the Blue and the White football team will meet its old rival, Ripon. The date has not yet been set, but plans are being made to make the event the biggest in the history of Lawrence.
The fraternities of the campus will also have their homecomings on the same date so that the largest number of alumni will be present at one time to renew their old college friendships. The event will also encourage former Lawrenceans to visit their Alma Mater.

TRAPPERS LOSE WAY AND FAST FIVE DAYS

Merrill.—A five days' fast and almost an inclination to turn to a first taste of muskrat or mink was the experience of Elmer McLaughlin, 18, and Ward McCrary, 20, who returned from a canoe trip in northern Michigan and the coast of Ontario. They left here Oct. 1 and succeeded in getting 300 skins in all, about twenty-five of them mink. The trip in Ontario was along the rivers just north of Lake Superior from Whitefish Bay and it was between two falls on one of these rivers that the two trappers got stuck for eight days, running out of rations on the third day. On the ninth day, they struck a lumbering camp where they did justice to a camp meal.
All during their fast they kept on trapping and heard the cries of lynxes in the surrounding wood. McLaughlin gained twenty pounds in weight McCrary ten.

SOCIALISTS REFUSE DEBATE CHALLENGE

Manitowish.—Socialists of the city have refused to accept a challenge offered by John O'Brien, Constitutional Defense league speaker, who weeks ago asked for a public debate with speakers of that party. The socialists accepted the challenge, but later side-stepped on technicalities.

Mr. O'Brien is willing to give the opposition either side of the question, allow them to secure any speaker they wish and have the privilege of naming the time and place.
The Constitutional Defense league, a Wisconsin organization maintained by popular subscription, claims to have done efficient work the last half year in combatting socialism and radicalism, basing its assertion on the fact that not a socialist was elected to a county office in the last election.

The Stage

Fiske O'Hara
The offering at Appleton theatre on Monday evening will be America's popular actor-singer Fiske O'Hara, in his enormously successful play, "Springtime in Mayo," a romantic comedy of Irish life, in three acts and written by Anna Nicholas Duffy. Of the many plays produced in recent years few have attracted such wide spread comment as "Springtime in Mayo." Its freshness, and real and genuine worth commend it to every admirer of all that is good in play-building. The succession of crowded houses that is everywhere greeting Mr. O'Hara and his company, and the manner in which press and public are receiving "Springtime in Mayo," emphasize unmistakably that it is a good and wholesome play.

Winner Players

Muffy patrons who saw the Winner Players in their production of "Branded" at the Appleton Theatre last night declared it to be the best performance of the week. It was a strong story, with plenty of pathos and sensation for those who enjoy the thrills of legitimate melodrama. While the ending was a little unusual, the plot was true to life and not overly exaggerated. In the hands of the Winner's capable cast it proved a very good show.

For tonight Manager Winninger announced a play that had a big run in Chicago at the Illinois theatre last season, the three act society comedy, "The Dangerous Age." High class vaudeville as usual will be presented between the acts. For Sunday matinee and night they will present the three act farce comedy, "A Pull House" which will close their engagement for the present season.

BANKER OFFERS PRIZES FOR HIGH TESTING COWS

Dodgeville.—Prizes amounting to $230 are offered by John M. Reese, president of the First bank of Dodgeville and editor of the Dodgeville Chronicle, for the highest testing cow and herd in Iowa county. In addition to offering the prizes, Mr. Reese says that he will do anything he can by way of fostering the establishment of pure-bred cattle in the county.
In accepting the offer in behalf of the Avoca, Noble, Barneveld and Highland Cow Testing association, H. R. Noble, county agent says, "Mr. Reese's generous offer is only one example of the wholeheartedness and generosity that our business men are showing in their efforts to make Iowa county a strong link in Wisconsin's great dairy system. The contest will start Jan. 1, 1921."

On Oct. 26 a boosters' tour, attended by all the prominent dairymen of Iowa county and officials of the Wisconsin experiment station was held, with the purpose of inspecting farmers in the work of cow testing associations and breed organizations. A feature of the trip was an inspection of the herds owned by John Voegel and Henry Barbler, Mr. Voegel's Brown Swiss herd is the largest in the middle west, while Mr. Barbler is the owner of a $20,000 sire that is a prize winner wherever shown.

Mission Ends
The two weeks' mission at St. Mary church closes Sunday evening. Services this week have been for the men.
Orville Carey, who is teaching at Kewauqua, is spending a few days at his home here.

SEEK OPINION OF CIVIC BOARD ON RAILWAY RATES

National Chamber of Commerce Submits Referendum to Appleton.

The question of improving the situation with respect to the country's railway lines is contained in the latest referendum submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Recommendations based on the ballot cast by the commercial organizations of the country will be submitted to the federal trade commission by the national chamber's committee on public utilities.

Eight recommendations are advanced by the committee for opinion. Another carefully selected committee has analyzed each recommendation and a report of the conclusions is contained in the request for the referendum. The purpose is not to secure the approval or disapproval, but merely the opinion of commercial organizations.

The propositions on the ballot are: Existing traction facilities should be conserved.
The attitude now taken toward street railway problems should be based upon the present and future needs of the community.

The attitude which is taken toward street railway problems should contemplate private ownership and operation.
Regulation should everywhere be instituted that will promptly follow changes in the situation of the companies rendering services of local transportation.

Provision should be made against the consequences of unfair competition.
All burdens unrelated to the service performed should be removed from street railways.

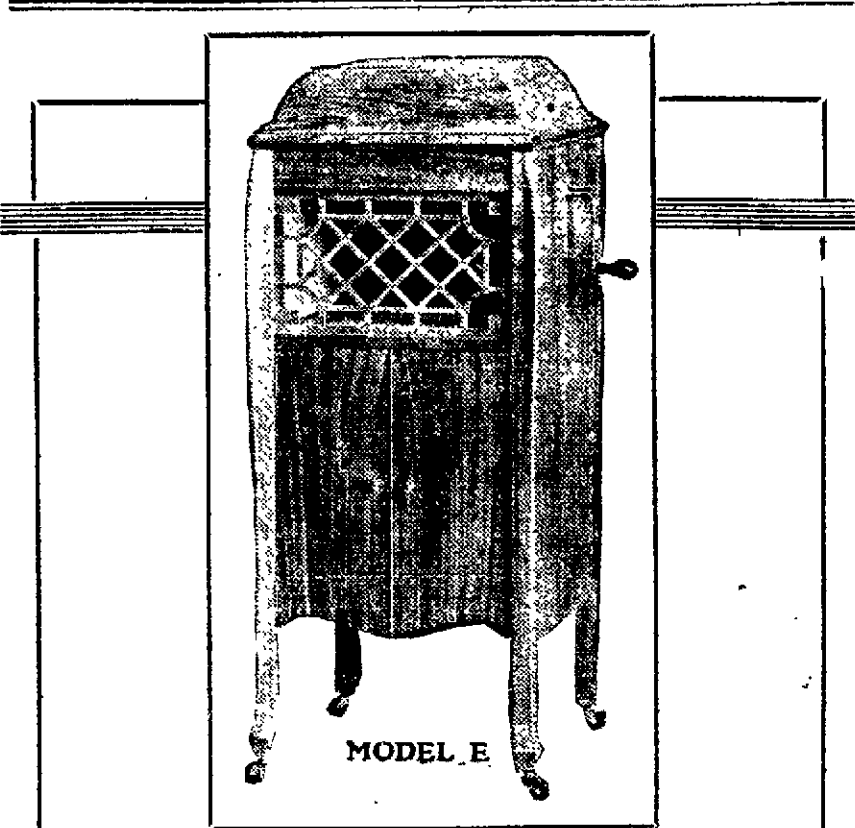

Official responsibility should be definitely fixed for the application of regulation.
Each company should seek to have available for the public at all times the facts as to the results of operation and should have resident responsible executives wholly conversant with local requirements.

Has no Credit
The federal trade commission believes that the electric railway industry is without financial credit and is not performing properly its public function, the special committee found, according to its report. The commission concludes that the first essential is to restore credit to the street railways in order that they may obtain the necessary new capital for the extension and improvement of service.

Conservation of present traction facilities and a public attitude that local transportation is an industry to be fostered and developed are considered necessary.
It is stated that the sensible way to deal with the problem is to permit existing organizations and present properties to earn a sufficient sum over their operating expense to induce investment of capital for extensions and improvements to existing facilities. It is not a question of past financing but of present earnings, and there should be provided a margin sufficient to give cheapest service to patrons of utilities. The committee recommends that the public attitude should therefore be based on the present and future needs of the community and not upon earlier conditions.

Public Ownership
A canvass of every consideration that has been brought forward in support of public ownership has resulted in the committee's finding in no solution for the present problems or meeting future requirements. The public attitude should therefore be one of private ownership and operation.

It is also believed that elasticity of regulation of traction companies should be substituted for rigidity. This will make it possible to adjust charges for service to yield revenues that are adequate, and to make other changes promptly, affecting any situation the company is obliged to face.
Unfair Competition
The committee urges as one of the duties of the public the protection of a transportation company from unfair competition from any source. It means that a company which is rendering service should be developed in efficiency and should not be subjected to competition from any other source which is not under corresponding regulation and obligations. Careful provision is recommended to prevent the disastrous consequences of unfair competition.
Reasonableness in rates should be decided only with reference to the service that is rendered, the report states. Rates charged for street railway transportation should not be made an indirect method of taxation for the community. A company should be taxed only on the basis of other comparable taxpayers.
A local official, board or public utilities commission is recommended to be directly responsible for regulation of street railway companies. Such body should have its responsibility definitely fixed, and should base its regulation on facts found through a thorough study. Prevention of controversies is suggested through informing the public regarding the company and its operations, and for having the company acquainted with the needs of the community.
